

Black History Month People to Know: George Washington Carver, Peanut Scientist

Meet George Washington Carver! He was born a slave. He became a scientist and inventor.

George believed we could make everything we need from plants. He made lots of things out of peanuts. He made glue, paint, shampoo, and paper. He also made peanut butter!

Directions: Circle the things George Washington Carver made from peanuts. Then color the pictures.

